POETRY.

How to Vote.

For the Advertiser and Tribune.

Would you learn to strike aright,
In November's bloodless fight,
You need not go long to school—
Just observe this simple rule:
How do all those classes vote
Which, when war was raging hot,
Cheered their country's foes? This note:
And then vote—as they do not.

Who the South with traitorous word
On to open treason spurred?
Bade her no "coercion" fear?
Threatened "fire in the rear,"
If the North's true sons should dare
To take arms against her plot?
Where do these men now stand? Where?
Mark, and vote—as they do not.

Who pronounced our greenbacks "rags?"
Who displayed Confederate flags?
Who took arms against the draft?
Who at rebel victories laughed?
Who o'er Union victories wept?
Who, to aid the rebel lot,
Waked to plan while patriots slept?
Mark; then vote—as they do not.

Seymour's "friends" with murder stained;
All who pot-house glasses drained
To the health of Lee and Bragg;
All who swore the rebel flag
Never could be made to bow,
Howe'er torn by loyal shot—
How will these vote? Learn we how,
And then vote—as they do not.

And aye! how will those men vote
Whose hands grasped the nation's throat?
Thrice ten times ten thousand men—
Slain in battle—starved in "pen"—
Died that Freedom's flag again
Proud should float o'er every spot
Cursed by treason. Vote we then—
As their murderers do not.

ERIC.

A REAL CITIZENSHIP.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax, the next Vice President, spoke at Lafayette, Ind., as follows, of the coming administration of Gen. Grant:

"Under the administration of Gen. Grant, we will have American citizenship as proud a protection as Roman citizenship in its palmiest days. When Paul stood in the midst of his enemies and they were about to scourge him, he said to them in the language of confidence. "Touch me not, for I am a Roman citizen," and the officer shrank back, for he realized that if he laid the weight of a finger upon him Rome would punish him for the offense.—They were a thousand to one against Paul, but the unseen power of a thousand Roman legions was with him, and with this Republican party in power the poorest and humblest man in the South, and the most defenseless naturalized citizen abroad, will feel that if he obeys the laws, the flag and the power of the country is with him, protecting him against outrage and wrong, from traitors at home or from enemies abroad. And then, with liberty achieved, with treason rebuked, with loyalty triumphant, our Constitution shall span our horizon from ocean to ocean, with liberty and justice shining out from out, like the sun by day and the stars at night, and every loyal heart throughout the land rejoicing at this glorious consummation, will praise God and will say amen and amen.—[Loud and long continued applause.]

This is exactly what is needed to give the country true and lasting peace. The rights and security of the humblest citizen must be secure before we can have peace. Oppression and injustice never bring peace. One end of the chain that bound the slave was attached to the master, and the nation that ordains or permits the oppression of any of its citizens must expect to feel in general insecurity and disorder, the penalty of its offense. Not only ought this absolute protection of the citizen to be assured at home, but it ought to shield and command for him consideration and respect abroad.

THE only danger of bankruptcy comes from the Democratic scheme for debasing our currency by a threatened issue of $1,700,000,000 greenbacks to pay the public debt, which would be no payment at all, but the exchange of one promise to pay for another promise to pay. How further stands the case on the Republican side? In three years $250,000,000 of the public debt has been paid; taxes to the amount of $167,000,000 reduced; the expenditures for the Government reduced $82,688,379 than they were last year, and the ordinary expenditures of the Government, such as are required on a peace footing, less than they were the last year of the last Democratic administration of James Buchanan, which armed the rebellion and gave it ships and money. In addition to this, on the diminished taxation, the revenues of the Government are increasing, owing to the increased tax collected from whisky and tobacco.

The probabilities all point to a decided reduction below the total of last year's outlay. The interest obligations of the present year will be $14,000,000 less, for in last year's expenditures was included the accumulated interest on the compound-interest notes. The State claims paid during the last fiscal year were over $10,000,000, and this item is one that is disposed of.—The Freedmen's Bureau, which last year cost $3,215,000, will soon cease to exist. The river and harbor appropriations for 1867-8 reached $6,132,120, while for the present year they are but $1,500,000. The army and navy are both being constantly reduced, and the saving in expense resulting from this should reach $50,000,000.

WHY should not such devoted friends of freedom and national unity vote now as they fought then? Why should they turn their backs upon their army records, to elevate into place and power the bloody-minded and bloody-handed malcontents who are refusing to obey the terms of their paroles as prisoners of war? Have they so soon forgotten the inhuman cruelties inflicted upon Union soldiers—their comrades in arms—at Andersonville, at Belle Ilse, at Libby Prison, and at other places of incarceration, where starvation and disease were made instruments to achieve success in war?

Let the patriotic Democrats who deserted their party the moment it allied itself with the enemies of their country ponder the political situation, and ask themselves seriously the question, each for himself, "Does not my duty to the cause of the Union require me, in the present crisis of affairs, to cast my ballot for Grant and Colfax?"

POLITICAL.

Gen. Kilpatrick was called upon for a speech, and in the course of his remarks said:

"All of you remember the proud and happy days when the heroes of Georgia and the Carolinas had joined the Boys in Blue around Grant, below the Potomac, and, with colors flying and drums beating, all came marching home across the hills and valleys of Virginia, keeping step to the sweet music of the Union; and we thought when marching down Pennsylvania avenue, down before the future residence of Ulysses S. Grant, [cheers,] when we had received the greetings of 10,000 of our fellow-citizens and had returned to our homes, that the war had ceased. But we were mistaken. The same force, with the same leaders, North and South, is now arrayed against us, and the question now arises, will you have Horatio Seymour or Gen. Grant for your next President? [Cries for Grant.] Will you have the stars taken from off the shoulders of the great Sherman and placed on the traitor Lee? [No, no.] Will you have that man hyena, Forest, take the place of the dashing and gallant little Phil. Sheridan? [No, no.] No, my fellow-citizens, we have met here to-day to take into consideration how this great evil may be prevented. We have a duty to perform, as great as that for which we fought during the war. We must place men in power whom we know will be true to the great principles for which we fought and crushed the rebellion. Not only that, but they must be also true to the interest of the widows and orphans of our comrades who have gone, and whose spirits in Heaven look down with approbation on the acts of their comrades who are assembled here to-day. Can I, can you, fellow-soldiers, can you, Gen. Burnside, stand timidly and cowardly by and see the Union and liberty destroyed forever? We are to-day—[voice in the crowd, "Let us charge them."] I wish to God we could make a charge. I just wish Robert E. Lee, Horatio Seymour and that scoundrel and traitor, Frank Blair, [hisses] were here to day with this crowd alone. We would put liberty and Union in the balance against them and treason.

Now you know that it is so, every man of you. Democrats and Republicans know that, and it cannot be better illustrated than by telling you what Gen. Brayman related to me a short ago. He said that he had occasion to go into the country out west, and went to the livery for a horse. He was informed that the negroes had a celebration that day, and every horse and buggy in that region was hired by the politicians of both parties, for the purpose of attending. But he managed to get out there, and he says when he arrived he found the Republicans who had come there from Kansas just pitching into the Democracy, and telling the "darkies" how that party had been the friend of slavery from the beginning. He said then there jumped up a Tennessee Democrat, and told the negroes, "Why, we have raised you; we have always treated you kindly; you can trust us, and you know well enough whenever a Yankee came down South and bought niggers, that he made the meanest kind of a master in the world!" [Loud cheers.]

The more sensible of the Democratic journals have abandoned all attempts to weaken Gen. Grant's hold upon the popular affections by personal abuse. Experience has taught them that the recoil of that weapon is more destructive than its charge, and both editors and orators, who mix brains with their politics, have ceased denouncing the Republican standard-bearer as a blunderer in war and a dolt in private life. They have found that the people believe in Grant's generalship, in his knowledge of men, in his simplicity of character, in his unassuming habits, in his keen and sagacious sense, in his practical modes of thought, in his firmness of will and in his sterling patriotism. They have found that his reticence is one of his unassailable and not his vulnerable points, and they have ceased to berate him for the possession of a quality that made the great Prince of Orange immortal as William the Silent.

In the New York Convention were nearly 200 rebel Generals, Colonels, Majors and Congressmen; and Wade Hampton, "framed and dictated, as a condition of his allegiance, that part of the Democratic platform which declares the acts of reconstruction 'unconstitutional, revolutionary and void.'" Such a shameless reproach "comes fittingly from men who have just emerged from a disgraceful companionship with N. B. Forrest, the contriver and leader of the Fort Pillow massacre."

Yet the men who engaged in this vindictive slaughter are exulting over their work. They crow over the fact that some hundred men have been sacrificed as an offering to appease the most malignant hates and the most pernicious theories. It is the type of the Southern Democracy, who dictated both platform and candidates to the Tammany Convention. They revel in blood. They foster and exemplify vengeance. They cannot appreciate tolerance of opinion. They deem the pistol and the bowie-knife the only legitimate instruments of political change. They do not hesitate to effect their ends by open violation of laws, human and divine. Before their unreasoning prejudices and passions, constitutions, statutes, institutions, compromises, alike must give way. Their feelings alone must control. Congresses are nothing; Legislatures are nothing; civil proceedings are nothing—there is nothing but the changeful and vengeful rule of the mob. This too, is what the American people are seriously asked to vote upon themselves, by the election of Seymour and Blair.

We have seen the Waterloo of armed rebellion; we have yet to see the St. Helena of the spirit of treason.—And who doubts that we, who sang while the war waged, the battle hymn, "Mine eyes have seen the coming of the glory of the Lord," shall see on November's day the death of the spirit of treason in the overwhelming defeat and utter rout of our political foe.—Gird on your armor, then, my comrades, to the fight. Close up your ranks. The spirits of your 300,000 slain and maimed comrades look approvingly down upon you, and as you now again feel the magic elbow touch, remember the invocation of our martyr President, spoken on Gettysburg's field: "We here nightly resolve that these honored dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and the government of the people shall not perish from the earth."—Gen. Sigel.

Hon. Donald J. Warner, the large manufacturer of Salisbury, Conn., who was a member of the Convention that nominated Seymour and Blair, has declared for Grant and Colfax. He finds, on mature reflection, that he cannot trust Seymour. He says:

"As a public man, his course has not been of that firm, consistent kind that we need in a President of the United States. He wants the spinal column. I would engage to convict him of moral weakness before a jury of 12 intelligent Democrats (provided he was not their candidate for the Presidency.) In 1862 the cry for a more vigorous prosecution of the war made him Governor of New York. In 1863 I found him making speeches in this State in favor of Thomas H. Seymour, who denounced the war from first to last."

The Philadelphia Bulletin tells a story of Gen. Grant, while he was in the cabinet, to the following effect: At one of the cabinet meetings, Mr. Johnson was indulging in some of his characteristic self-glorifications over the "sacrifices" he had made for the country, and one or more of his cabinet joined in the same strain of self-praise. Gen. Grant said: "Well, gentlemen, so far as I am concerned I have never made any sacrifices for the country.—The country has always done more for me than I have done for it. I suppose I would be ready to make sacrifices, but I have never had the opportunity; and I think that, as a general rule, our public men get more from the country than they give to it."

David Barry, an Irishman of Cleveland, publishes a card, in which, referring to Blair's St. Louis "Finnegan" speech, he says he "would as soon vote for that arch-traitor, Jeff. Davis, or Benjamin Disraeli, of England, as for a man who could so heartlessly trifle with the most cherished feelings of our race." He then adds: "The Irishman who could tamely down such an insult to his country and per heroic efforts to be free, without resenting it at the ballot box next November, is destitute of all public spirit, dead to the claims and sufferings of his mother land, and is anything but an honor to that proud, defiant, sensitive old race whence he sprung."

"Every man that stood up in Congress in that dark winter, when State after State was seceding, and said, 'No coercion!—you cannot coerce a sovereign State—they may talk treason here in the Capitol as much as they please, and draw the sword of the rebellion in the face of the Government without hindrance'—every one was a Democrat."

Judge Gridley, of Jackson, addressed the Republicans of that city on the evening of the 3d, renouncing all allegiance to Democracy, and declaring for Grant and Colfax in a sound speech that called forth great applause from the large audience. He has always been an active Democrat until the past year.

"I told Horatio Seymour to his face in 1863, that he was the head and front of the riots, and that the Government ought to send him under guard to Fort Lafayette. If I had been in command I would have done it."—Gen. Kilpatrick.

Horatio Seymour has been the deadliest, most implacable enemy throughout, of the ideas which triumphed in the abolition of Slavery and discomfiture of the Rebellion. He was an open advocate and champion of that Nebraska bill whereby Slavery shamelessly repudiated a solemn compact whereof she had reaped the full advantage, and strove to wrest from Free Labor a vast region which she had quit-claimed for a valuable consideration in hand. For the victims in Kansas of Border Ruffian arson, outrage and murder he had never a word of cheer or sympathy. He was for Buchanan against Fremont when this State gave the Pathfinder a plurality of 80,000. He was for anybody against Lincoln in 1860, when New York gave the latter a clean majority of 50,000. Mr. Lincoln being elected, he insisted that the Republicans should give up their cardinal principle of No Extension of Slave Territory, or be held accountable for the Rebellion that the slaveholders would otherwise initiate. He attended the Tweddle Hall Convention, in Albany, Jan. 31, 1861; and there—because the Republicans in Congress kept quiet, and did not ask pardon of the Slave Power for having elected a President—assailed them bitterly.

"I SEE the Republicans are trying to dodge the fluancial issues," wrote Gov. Seymour to Mr. Ingersell, "and to sink the election into a mere personal contest. Our papers must not allow this. They must push the debt and taxation upon the public attention." Well, the Democrats have begun the pushing process, and a pretty fist they are making of it. The Massachusetts State Convention unanimously resolves that "the Democracy of Massachusetts, now as in the past, are true to their old faith in hard money." The New York Convention, on the contrary, puts itself squarely on record as in favor of irredeemable paper. Whereupon The World pooh-poohs the whole question, thinks "debt and taxation" not of much consequence, and recognizes no issue but Reconstruction. "Let the poor cat alone."

Let us briefly repeat the essential facts of the Camilla mob and murders—willingly or unwillingly disclosed in every account, rebel or Republican, of the occurrences:

1. The Republican procession, with speakers and music, was peaceably approaching the place at which the Republican meeting for weeks had been advertised to take place.

2. It was warned off by resident rebels.

3. It insisted on its rights, and advanced toward the place of meeting.

4. It was first fired upon by a drunken rebel.

5. In the melee that followed it made little resistance, was speedily scattered, and its flying members were pursued six or seven miles.

6. Several Republicans were killed, and between fifty and a hundred were wounded. Only six rebels were wounded, and none were killed.

Brick Pomeroy has been sued for libel by D. O'Sullivan, editor of the Irish People—damages laid at $25,000—for a publication in the Democrat charging that O'Sullivan had been bribed by candidates.

Seymour and Rebellion.

In case Seymour should be elected President, and during his administration, another rebellion should break out, through the attempted secession of any of the States, it is evident to intelligent voter—

1. That Seymour would not attempt to put down the rebellion by force of arms.

2. That Seymour could not crush a rebellion if he should attempt it.

3. That the election of a man who will not and cannot put down a rebellion against the Republic, directly encouraging a new rebellion, by guaranteeing its success, and giving it every advantage in advance.

That Seymour would not resist a fresh attempt at secession is clearly proved by his own record. He holds that the United States Government has no right to resist secession. He holds that coercion of rebellious States is unconstitutional. He holds that the Government has no right to raise armies by draft to put down a rebellion. He holds that the United States Government has no right to blockade the ports of rebellious States. He holds that the United States Government has no right to raise money to carry on war by issuing bonds in the only form upon which capitalists will loan money to the Government. He holds that every effectual means for levying war against rebels is illegal and wrong. Beside this, he hates and fears the great and experienced Generals who alone are ready and capable to conduct a war for the defense of the Republic. His hands are tied because the rebels will be his particular political friends.

That Seymour cannot put down a fresh attempt at secession if he would, is still more plainly evident. For, even if he should retract his own words, and turn his back upon his own record, and so far turn Republican as to hold a draft, a blockade, arbitrary arrests, coercion of States, and Government bonds legal and proper, his party would not back him. A Democratic Congress would not vote him supplies, either of men or of money, to carry on a war against Southern Democrats. Pendleton, Vallandigham, Pierce, the Woods, Brooks, and all the Democratic leaders, in Congress and in his Cabinet, would desert and oppose him.—They would not allow him to draft, or to coerce, or to arrest traitors, or to blockade Southern ports, or to employ the army and navy against their party and his party in the South. The Democratic party has opposed every war measure that has been used to save the Union. They are pledged and on record in opposition to every means by which the Union can be preserved, if again assailed. Seymour, as their President, would be tied hand and foot, completely powerless to prevent the destruction of the Republic.—Detroit Post.

Speech by Sen. Fessenden.

Nobody ever dreamed that the principal of this debt was to be paid in promises. No Court, nor any living man, to my knowledge, supposed so. The language of the second section is precisely the language of every previous law of a similar nature; there is no distinction whatever. In that law we provided for a fund from which the debt we incurred should be paid, and gentlemen who spoke on the subject in both Houses repeatedly stated that the principal and interest would be paid in coin. More than all that, Mr. Chase, our Secretary of the Treasury, stated it publicly in a letter, and that letter was circulated in both branches of Congress, yet no member rose in his place and said that the letter stated the contract as it did not exist. Not a word was said against it; nobody undertook to question its propriety. When I was Secretary of the Treasury I recommended that all doubt should be removed by distinctly stating that the principal was to be paid in coin, that was not considered necessary by others; the lanquage of the law was such that everybody inferred from it that the principle was to be paid in coin. It was so stated in the newspapers, and our agents were instructed so to represent matters to the people. No nation in negotiating a loan for 20, 30, or 40 years would think of giving six per cent., and no nation in the world situated as ours was at that time could get money at six per cent. The action of Congress, therefore, was taken with an idea to settle up this forced loan as soon as possible. Having done this, we are told by the Democratic party that we would be justified in taking advantage of this five years' stipulation, put in there in the hope to be able to meet all our obligations in that time, or soon after, justified in paying these bonds off with more promises. And why do you say that? Simply because it was the letter of the contract. Was it the spirit of the contract? I will illustrate it. Every man had a right to get a bond payable in 20 years, and redeemable in five years, with interest semi-annually, payable in coin. Now, our Democratic friends say that at the end of five years it is right to pay these bonds in greenbacks. Let us see what the practical working of this plan would be. Suppose I had a bond for $1,000. I go to the Treasury, and the Government says, "I will pay you off in these bonds, and these promises; you are not entitled to anything else; that is the contract." I turn around in the same building where I am paid, and I go to the Treasurer and say, "Here are $1,000 in greenbacks; the law says I may have a bond for 20 years, redeemable in 5 years." When the five years are gone I go again and get other bonds, and so also at the end of the next five years, and am paid off in the same way. That would be the operation of their method, and this is manifest to all, to the citizens of foreign countries as well as of our own.

THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS.

There is but one way to deal with this question, and that is for you to pay your debts, and for the Government to pay its debts, redeem its obligations in good faith, in common honesty, in the face of the world, and in the spirit as well as the letter of the contract. [Applause.] In precisely what manner it shall be done is a question of statesmanship, which I cannot now stop to discuss. The Democrats say there is a great deal of suffering, of misery and poverty here in the North on account of the taxes. I have failed to see it; we work to pay our taxes, and thank God we are able to pay them. [Applause.] The only way for us to succeed is by a straightforward payment of our debts. We could not look foreign Governments in the face if we refused to do so. National prosperity lies only in the same path with national honesty; all others are crooked and devious, and lead astray. Let a nation once forfeit its honor and it is gone forever.

My heart bounded when I read the declaration of the Republican party that the debt of the country was to be paid according to the spirit of the contract by which it was incurred; I was so much pleased with the doings of the Republican Convention at Chicago that I readily forgave them all they said about approving the vote of the 35 Senators who voted for impeachment. It may be that it hit me, but I looked at it in this way—the 35 Senators needed an indorsement, and I did not. (Laughter.) Discharge at once and forever all idea of tampering with your obligations. If anybody advises you to repudiate, repudiate the repudiator, no matter whether he belongs to the Democratic Party or to the Republican Party, whether he lives in Ohio or in Massachusetts—repudiate him. He is unworthy of the confidence of an honest, God-fearing and intelligent people.

A TRUE MAN.—Shakspeare's estimate of true manhood is not more definite and beautiful than suggestive:

His words are bonds, his oaths are oracles,
His love sincere, his thoughts immaculate;
His tears are pure messengers sent from his heart,
His heart as far from fraud as heaven from earth.

A POOR wild Irish boy, taught in a missionary school in Ireland, was asked what was meant by saving faith. He replied: "Grasping Christ with the heart."

THE ELECTIONS.

—:o:—

Four States Added to the Republican Column.

As goes Pensylvania, so goes the Union.

Pensylvania from 8,000, to 10,000.

Ohio 17,000.

INDIANA IN DOUBT.

Though in all probability, Baker, (Rep.) is elected Governor, by about 1000. Nebraska over 2,000. We lose five Congressmen, two in Indiana, two in Ohio, and one in Penyslvania. We gain a U. S. Senator, in Pensylvania, and one in Indiana, having the Legislature of both States. The omens are all for Grant and Colfax. Victory on the 3rd of November is assured. The November elections will register the the decision of the people with increased emphasis, and greater majorities. Never was a more glorious day's work done—not even at Five Forks or Appomatax Court-House—than the battle of Tuesday. Now let every soldier in the Union ranks, fix bayonets and get ready for the final charge in November.

THE ROLL CALL.

Reader where is your name enrolled On the roll with Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Thomas, Hooper, Siegles Sickles, Scofield, Logan, Pope, Kilpatrick, Burnside, Williams, Palmer, and a score of other Generals. A large majority of the rank and file, the 300,000 dead, the living "Boys in Blue," who fought that the republic might live and have a new birth-right of freedom Or, are you on the roll with Lee, Wade Hampton, Forrest, Semmes, and thousands of others dead and living who fought to destroy the Government, to perpetuate the unmittigated curse of slavery and obliterate the last vestige of liberty and civilization in our country. In the name of Heaven, in the name of patriotism, in the nnme of liberty, in the name of 300,000 dead, in the name of the flag and the constitution, can those who have fought four years to proserve the government, vote to give it over into the hands of those who fought four years to destroy it.

Hear the brave Sheridan.

"It is as essential to have a political victory this Fall as it was to have an Appomattox in 1865, and every man who loves his country should vote for Grant.

PHILIP H. SHERIDAN,
Major-General,
U. S. A.

So says every Union General of any National fame whatever. Reader, on which side do you stand? Be able to boast to your children and grand children in after times, that in 1868 when rebellion sought to regain by the ballot what they lost by the bullet, by the election of Seymour and Blair, you cast your vote for Grant and Colfax, a Union maintained, a government preserved, peace secured, justice and liberty triumphant.

The Debt must be Paid.

The war cost not less than four billions of dollars. There is this amount less of real value in property to-day.—This is the cost of the Democratic rebellion. As honest men we must pay it. If the people should vote to repudiate it, that would not diminish its burden by a single dime. The American People would still owe it, and would ultimately be constrained to pay every farthing of it.

Over fifty years ago, Great Britain and Spain emerged from a long and desolating war, wherein each had incurred a heavy National Debt. Great Britain resolved to pay her debt to the last farthing: and she has ever since been growing in population and wealth. Spain sank into the bog of Repudiation, and there she lies stranded to this hour. Her power has vanished with her fortified credit; her industry, commerce, and wealth, have steadily declined; she is the football of the Great Powers, and of no more real weight than Denmark or Morroco. Her people, abject and hopeless, have sank at last into seeming content under the double burden of despotism and infamy.

Hard Pushed.

Some of our Democratic friends pretend to say that our advocacy of Grant and Colfax in the several districts of the vicinity, is manufacturing Democratic voters. At the same time they seem very officious in shutting School Houses against us, where they have the power and also appointing Democratic meetings, on top of our appointments.—The latter they did in two instances, at Milan, and at the Redner School House Making Democrats forsooth, your preaching and practice, don't gibe. It is the fashion of Democracy to trumpet what our speakers are doing for them. But somehow they are wonderfully zealous to circumvent their meetings, and ward off their truth telling blows. We are increasing our circulation in the several districts, where we have held meetings. Here is where the "shoe pinches."

ARE there voters who blame the Republicans for the war of Secession? They will vote, of course, to turn the Republicans out and restore Howell, Cobb, Toombs, Wade Hampton & Co to power. These men raised the flag of rebellion because Mr. Lincoln was—through their own convenience, in breaking up the Democratic party—elected President. If they were right in so doing, then the Debt, the Pension List, and consequent heavy taxes, are rightly scored up against us who resisted them. But if the Rebellion was wrong and they who upheld the Union were right, then the National Debt embodies Twenty-five Hundred Millions of solid reasons why the Rebel chiefs and their allies ought not to be entrusted with the government of the country. And every poor man, who finds his comforts dimished by taxation should vote to keep them out.

Grand Mass Meeting at Detroit.

Schuyler Colfax will be Present, Friday, Oct. 23d.

This mass meeting will be the meeting of the campaign. No doubt 50,000 persons will be present. The Tanners of Detroit extend an invitation to all the Tanners of the State to rally.—There will be the grandest torchlight procession ever witnessed on the soil of Michigan. We welcome the statesman and patriot, Schuyler Colfax, to our State. No where will he receive more enthusiastic cheers than in Michigan.

GRAND MASS MEETING AT JACKSON.

To-day will be held one of the largest meetings Central Michigan ever witnessed. The torch procession in the evening will be a magnificent affair. Many of our Tanner boys will be there.

MASS MEETING AT ANN ARBOR.

A grand mass meeting will be held at Ann Arbor, Oct. 28th. The Tanners from the entire county will be out. Able speakers will be in attendance. Ole Washtenaw will arouse herself and come out in her strength. We see no reason why our entire ticket may not be elected by reasonable effort on the part of every Republican.

Victory Under Discouragements.

The Republican party never achieved victory under such discouraging circumstances. Never were so multitudinous and outrageous frauds Maryland and Kentucky poured out their Border Ruffians as did Missouri in the days of "Bleeding Kansas." The rebel invasion was almost equal to that at Gettysburg and under the circumstances the discomfiture of the copperheads as signal.

dency, hatched in the stench of revolutionary corruption into an ephemeral existence—renegades from the laws of God, and violators of the laws of men, we serve you with notice this day, that victory is coming, Georgians—proud Georgians, the men of the South, the men of the North—patriots everywhere are sending up their vows to heaven that this is and shall forever be a union of equal States, or no Union at all.—(Wild cheers, lasting several minutes.) Men of pride, men of character, women—thank God—without a dissenting voice, and even children in their playgrounds, are proclaiming, on hill-top and in the valley, that those whom God made superior shall never be degraded.

According to Ben, therefore, "the men whom 'God made superior' are to have a Union that he fancies or 'no Union at all. This is his understanding of the Democratic platform, and as a preparatory step he makes this proclamation:

"One thing you must do for the protection of your children and of yourselves, and for the vindication of your honor. I affirm it and I want it heard It is going to be the law of this country, and a law more irrepealable than the laws of the Medes and Persians. Not one man that dares record his vote for the inequality and vassalage of the Southern States, and the degredation of his own race ought ever to be received into a decent family in Georgia, or in the South, now or hereafter. (Cries of 'Never.') If we have not got the power to make the laws for our General Government, or for society, thank God we can at last pass laws for our own homesteads. My mother and my sisters and my dear young ladies—for I am sure I love every one of you—I feel that I am the brother of every woman in Georgia, and the son of every man—I charge you this day as you honor your children and your household, and your good name, and your posterity, never suffer a single native renegade that votes for the vassalage of these States and to the disgrace of your children to darken your doors or speak to any member of your family (Cries of 'Good,' 'That's right,' 'Hurrah,' etc.) You condemn the poor victim to the penitentary that steals a horse or $100, and yet these miserable vagabonds have sought to bargain away everything that you have. You scorn the criminal—the man that has violated the laws of your country. These miserable vagabonds are faithless to every law of Heaven and on earth, and have used every means to sell you to those that hate you."

—This is the spirit that murdered Ashburn at midnight in his bed—that led to a riot in New Orleans "worse than the massacre at Fort Pillow"—that has generated the Ku-Klux-Klan—that has made Texas a hell—and compelled two years of military occupation and domination in the South. It now proposes to lay violent hands upon the Constitution and the reconstructed Union, to destroy the fruits of victory, and to bring us back, as Wade Hampton expresses it "to the Union "and the Constitution, as they existed "before the war." Could words be plainer? Could a purpose be more evident or more natural? Gen. Hampton fought through many bloody battles for this result—why should he not accept it from Seymour and Blair? In 1860 Democracy meant the externity of slavery; In 1864 it meant that the war and emancipation were failures; In 1868 it means that treachery and surrender shall undo the results of the war, and bring upon us anarchy, unrest, persecution in the South, banishment of the loyalists, proscription of Union men, the triumph of the slave power, and the perpetuation of the slave interest. They call it "reaction," and assert that they mean peace. We call it Revolution. We produce the evidence, and insist that it means war.

Friends—study this record—and then tell us, if the Democratic party does not mean Revolution what does it mean.

WOMAN.—FEMALES, OWING TO THE PECULIAR and important relations which they sustain, their peculiar organization, and the offices they perform, are subject to many sufferings. Freedom from these contribute in no small degree to their happiness and welfare, for none can be happy who are ill. Not only so, but no one of these various female complaints can long be suffered to run on without involving the general health of the individual, and ere long producing permanent sickness and premature decline. nor is it pleasant to consult a physician for the relief of these various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent necessity will a true woman so far sacrifice her greatest charm as to do this. The sex will then thank us for placing in their hands simple specfiics which will be found efficacious in relieving and curing almost every one of these troublesome complaints peculiar to the sex.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU.—Hundreds suffer on in silence, and hundreds of others apply vainly to druggists and doctors who merely tantalize them with the hope of a cure or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injustice to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that although it may be produced from excessive exhaustion of the powers of life, by laborious employment unwholsome air and food, profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent childbirth, it is far oftener caused by direct irritation, applied to the mocus membrane of the vagina itself.

When reviewing the causes of these distressing complaints, it is most painful to contemplate the attendent evils consequent upon them. It is but simple justice to the subject to enumerate a few of the many additional causes which so largely affect the life, health, and happiness of woman in all classes of society, and which, consequently, affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire human family. The mania that exists for precocious education and marriage, causes the years that nature deignated for corporeal development to be wasted and perverted in the restraints of dress, the early confinement of school, and especially in the unhealthy excitement of the ball-room. Thus, with the body half clothed, and the mind unduly excited by pleasure, perverted in midnight revel the hours designated by nature for sleep and rest, the work of destruction is half accomplished.

In consequence of this early strain upon system, unnecessary effort is required by the delicate votary to retain her situation in school at a later day, thus agravating the evil. When one excitement is over, another in prospective keeps the mind morbidly sensative to impression, while the now constant restraint of fashionable dress, absolutly forbiding the exercise indispensible to the attainment and retention of organic health and strenght; the exposure to night air; the sudden change of temperature; the complete prostatation produced by excessive dancing must, of necessity produce their legitimate effect, At last, an early mariage caps the climax of misery, and the unfortunate one, hitherto so uterly regardless of the plain dictates and remonstrances of her delicate nature, becomes an unwilling subject of medical treatment. This is but a truthful picture of the experience of thousands of our young women.

Long before the ability to exercise the function of the generative organs, they require an education of their peculiar nervous system, composed of what is called the tissue, which is, in common with the female breast and lips, evidently under the control of mental emotions and associations at an early period of life; and, as we shall subsequently see, these omotions, when excessive, lead long before puberity, to habits which sap the very life out of their victims ere nature has self-completed their development.

For Female Weekness and Debility, Whites or Leucorrhœa, Too Profuse Menstruation, Exhaustion, Too Long Continued Periods, for Prolapsus and Bearing Down, or Prolapsus Uteri, we offer the most perfect specific known: HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF BUCHU. Directions for use, diet, and advice, accompany.

Females in every period of life, from infancy to extreme old age, will find it a remedy to aid nature in the discharge of its functions. Strenght is the glory of manhood and womanhood. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is more strenghtening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron, infinitely safer, and more pleasant. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU, having received the indorsement of the most prominent physicians in the United States, is now offered to afflicted humanity as a certain cure for the following diseases and symtoms, from whatever cause originating: General Debility, Mental and Physical Depression, Imbecility Determination of Blood to the Head, Confused Ideas, Hysteria, General Irritability, Restlessness and Sleeplessness at night, Absence of Muscular Efficiency, Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, Low Spirits, Disorganization or Paralysis of the Organs of Generation, Palpitation of the Heart, and, in fact, all the concomitants of a Nervous and Debiliated state of the system. To insure the genuine cut this out. Ask for HELMBOLD'S. Take no other. Sold by druggists and Dealers everywhere. Price $1,25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6,50, delivered to any address. Describe symtoms in communications. Address H. T. HELMBOLD, Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, N. Y.

None are genuine unless done up in steel engraved wrapper, with fac-simile of my Chemical Warehouse, and signed

SENATOR HOWARD AT HEWITT HALL.

Last Wednesday evening there was the largest gathering we ever witnessed in Hewitt Hall. There was a jam. The Tanners were out 200 strong and made a fine display. Mr. D. B. Harrington brought on to the stand—looking as plump and sleek as ever—that "same old coon" of 1840, transparencies with apt mottoes were brought on to the stage; "Sen. Howard, present at roll-call, and true to the Union, we will never desert him;" "Our Howard, true and tried, whom traitors can never bribe."

Mr. Howard took the Democratic party to Chicago, declaring the war for the Union "a failure, and demanding a cessation of hostilities." Horatio Seymour, President of that traitorous Convention. The question on trial was, is the Union a rope of sand to be dissolved at will? The American people said no. The war was not a local mob, but a real war and governed by the laws of war. The subjugated rebels were in the position of all conquered people, in accordance with the laws of war, at the complete mercy of the conquerers. The "Boys in Blue" brought the rebel horde at their feet, and silenced the empty boast that one Southern soldier could whip three Northern soldiers. By Congressional law the rebellion was put down. By Congressional action it remained for the rebel States to be reconstructed.—Andrew Johnson as a usurper undertook to dictate to the rebel States how they should vote, etc.—to do the very things which the over squeamish Democracy condemn in Congress.—The Democracy—after we had whipped the traitors—simply wanted us to withdraw our soldiers and permit the rebels to reorganize the States on a basis to suit themselves; what did the war smount to on this basis? The war would simply be a failure. Congress saw its duty not simply to discern but to suppress the rebellion.—Eighty thousand colored troops enlisted in our service. It was our duty to protect them. No black ever took arms against the United States. Johnson, by his decapitating veto acts, sought to thwart Congress, but in vain. Congress marched straight forward and secured the rights of the people, white and black. The Republican party placed the principle of liberty in the Constitution—beyond the reach of Democrats and Copperheads. He clearly developed how the war would result from the election of Seymour and Blair---instancing the case of North Carolina—supposing (an impossible supposition) Seymour and Blair elected. Their platform pronounces the reconstruction acts "unconstitutional, revolutionary and void." The ex-rebels treat it so and arise to overthrow the State Government. Gov. Holden calls on Seymour for protection. No, says Seymour, your State Government is "void." The result is the Governor, with the aid of the loyalists white and black, is left to fight it out. So in every State, and universal rebellion is again inaugurated. Gen. Grant, who has commanded the largest armies and knows as few men know the woes and untold horrors of war, says "Let us have peace." He will secure peace by faithfully executing the laws. No candid, thinking Democrat can conscientiously vote for Seymour, and thus knowingly vote to open the gates of war—cast censure upon the graves of the 300,000 loyal slain. The spirit of the people is with Grant. His election brings peace and prosperity, stability and economy. Obedience to law will arrest the Ku Klux Klan—no more murders of Union men. Every American who votes for Grant now will be proud to tell it to his posterity. Mortification and shame will abide upon the countenances of those children who will be compelled to say "My father was a coppernead." Save your children the eternal disgrace. The President of the Grant Club, D. B. Greene, called for three cheers for Grant and Colfax, and the hall rung as never before.

BENEFIT CONCERT—MISS FLORENCE A. RICE.—This concert given at Hewitt Hall in complience with an invitation on the part of many of our citizens was a decided success. Messrs Pease and Bengel, Mr. Charles S. Lee, M. W. Ferris, and the Misses Barr assisted, all capital players and singers, but Miss Rice was the central star. At evary appearance on the stage she was greeted with applause. She possesses a sweet, facinating, preposessing face, and when she sings fairly bewitches her audience. Possessing a fine volume of voice, complete command of the keys, high and low, she is destined to make no uncommon mark in the musical world. She is soon to sail for Europe and place herself under the first masters of the art. "Salve Marie" was enthusiastically encored. "Lucretia Borgia." Said a young lady near us, "This is splendid." "The beautiful girl of the South" was beautifully sung by Messrs Pease, Lee, and the Misses Barr. The latter are sweet singers. Profs. Pease and Bengel did up "La Fille Du Regiment," Prof. Bengel playing on his violin and Pease that splendid piano of Schomacker & Co, and for sale, in a taking manner. M. W. Ferris excited somewhat of the old time-honored interest in his "Rail Road" song. The receipts must have been handsomely generous.

THEATRICAL.—It will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere that France & Lennier's Dramatic Constellation will give a series of entertainments at Hewitt Hall commencing on Monday evening Oct. 19th. This company is highly spoken of by the press in others places where they have performed and as their selection of pieces consists of some of the latest sensation drama, such as Boucicatelts Irish Drama of Arra-Na-Pogue, Daly's New York Sensation called Under the Gas-Light etc., etc. They cannot fail to give entire satisfaction and will no doubt receive the liberal patronage which their merits fully deserve. The company was advertised for this week but such was its popularity at Port Huron, that the company concluded to remain through the week.

COM.

The Sentinel Man Excited.

Our cotemporary is so much excited over the certain election of Grant and Colfax that any old woman can easily impose upon him. He has wrought himself up to imagine that we wanted to hold discussions with him. What we a "fool" a "blockhead," we who have made such a poor fist at the printing bnsiness, and publish such a tame paper, we, enter the lists against a man "smarter than Schuyler Colfax," in comparison with whom our Colfax is of no account? Never have we dared to aspire to such eminence. According to his authority Democrats cheer at our meetings. We were not aware of their displaying such good sense. And our Republican leaders are fearful of our efforts, says our copperhead cotemporary, and are exerting their influence to arrest our appointments. Well we advise them like men to come directly to us instead of using so shameless a mouth piece as the Sentinel to inform us of their timidity and disapproval. But these men are not accustomed to use the Sentinel man for an informer. When we can find three fibs in one little article, how about the entirety of the little sheet? The ministry, ever true to liberty and humanity had to come in for another assault. Our cotemporary hates God's ministers as badly as he loves the devil.

NEW YORK, Agust 7, 1868.

MR. EDITOR:—Several of your correspondents, very old and respectable no doubt, seemed to be wonderfully exercised as to the origin of our PLANTATION BITTERS. So lon g as these bitters are all that we represent them to be, we do not know that it makas any difference from they came, or from whence they originated; but for the information of the public generally, and old Capt. Wentz in particular, we will say that he told the truth, and that these bitters originated in the West India Islands—that many of the ingredients have been favorably used for over a century, but our combination of Calisaya is entirely new, and our own. The rum and other materials are the same, and as your correspondent says, a better Bitters and Tonic is not made. We recommend them particularly for dyspeptics, fever and ague, debility, loss of appetite, and in all cases where a tonic and stimulant is required.

"QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS."

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.

Prepared by Dr. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases OF THE LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Hoofland's German Bitters

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts) of Roots, Herbs and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from Alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, etc., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

Hoofland's German Bitters.

In cases of nervous depression, when some alcoholic stimulus is necessary, should be used.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

The Bitters or the Tonic are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The result of which is, that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhea, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, etc.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole System, the Appetite is Strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

Persons Advanced in Life,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, will all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

Hon. Geo. W. Woodward.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:

Philadelphia, March 16, 1867.

"I find Hoofland's German Bitters' is in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours truly,

GEO. W. WOODWARD."

Hon. James Thompson,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it.

Yours, with respect,

JAMES THOMPSON."

From Rev. Joseph H. Kennard, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and specially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,

J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.

From Rev. E. D. Fendall,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours truly,

E. D. FENDALL.

Speech by Gen. Sickles.

They propose, after stigmatizing the holders of American bonds as "bloated bondholders," to pay those bonds, as clap-trap to the common people on whose ignorance they draw, with greenbacks. Why, fellow-citizens, I must undertake to say, as my individual opinion, that the greatest fault of Congress has been in not withdrawing from circulation $400,000,000 non-interest paying, dishonored notes now in circulation. [Applause.] Let me explain that so as not to be misunderstood. There are of what are known as greenbacks as in circulation $400,000,000, on the face of each of which is a clause of the Legal Tender act, compelling us to take them as money. On their face the United States promises to pay the holder, whoever he is, at the United States Treasusy, the amount that it represents, on demand, and they are not paid. Now let me tell you where they are in consequence. We will suppose our fellow-citizen, A. T. Stewart, worth $20,000,000 to-day, and that is conceded by every man in this community. His note of hand today, wherever it is authenticated, is good for its face, 100 cents on the dollar, because he has the credit. If he should refuse to pay these notes his credit would be at a discount. So with the United States. The Democrats propose to pay the entire bonds in greenbacks. But I ask what the greenbacks will be worth? If $400,000,000 is not paid, and at a discount of 40 per cent., what would $2,000,000,000 be discounted at? Well, you can't guess it. If the Government should refuse to pay it, there is not a laborer that could support his family upon it. The notes of the Government would not be worth the rags.—No, not even rags, for there would be no American industry to turn rags to account. And that is the plan that this Tammany ring proposes to this nation. [Hissing and cheering, with some confusion.] You understood yourselves, fellow-citizens, those men who hiss, hiss Seymour. I tell you it is one universal hiss from Maine to California, (applause) and by the 3d of November it will be a serious fact. Not only will Grant be elected by a most triumphant majority that a President in this country was ever elected by, but the Democratic party will have gone into dissolution, for it is rotten. (Enthusiastic applause.) Nor could it be otherwise. They undertook in the New York Convention, made up of Northern Copperheads and a hundred rebel officers, who murdered our poor prisoners, to make a candidate for the President of this Republic. Is it any wonder that you have heard the news from Maine? Is it any wonder that California at the other end will return, notwithstanding our defeat the last year, its electors with certainty for Grant? (Cheers.) Is it any wonder that Democrats having any regard for their opinion admit in private circles everywhere that they are defeated and routed to-day? And you, fellow-citizens, of Irish birth, I am glad to know everywhere that you are coming in to redeem the conntry from their attempt to regain power, and to ally yourselves hereafter to the great party of liberty. (Applause.)—Let me give you now at this moment of time and example for you. When in the great closing scenes of the war our own Sheridan, (great applause) at the Five Forks, sent his laconic message to our great commander and candidate in these words, or nearly these: "If things are pushed Lee will surrender," and Grant returned that famous message: "Push things." Fellow-citizens of Irish birth, let us devote ourselves from now until the 3d of next November energetically to pushing things. Others will forgive us if we shall make a grand page in history by driving the civil enemies of the Republic into the last ditch.

Frank Blair and Negro Equality.

On the same train which brought Gen. Grant's party down from the Rocky Mountains in July, was an enterprising showman, who had in his charge a black and white spotted negro boy, six years of age, and of pure African blood, whom he was bringing to the East to place on exhibition. While the train was yet standing at the depot at Cheyenne, this youthful prodigy was left alone for a time, to keep company with the baggage. He waited very impatiently the return of his patron, and passed the time in exerbising his infantile lungs on an original chapter of uncivilized profanity. Finally, however, the showman returned, and to conciliate the irritated member from Africa, he drew from a deep pocket a large black bottle, which he had very recently caused to be filled with whisky.

"Lord, dere's de big bile!" exclaimed the enraptured prodigy—his word "bile" of course being foreign "brogue" for phial. The infant took a long, healthy pull at the "bile," after which the enterprising showman followed example in a telling manner. There was "peace in Africa," then, for the forenoon. When the train stopped at the dinner station the joint pull at the "bile" was repeated.

On the platform, at this point, our showman had the misfortune to be introduced to Gen. Frank Blair, who was serving in his self-appointed position of Democratic patrolman for the occasion, to see that Gen. Grant should not get too much to drink! Mr. Blair seemed well pleased to meet the enterprising showman. He liked the beaming, ruddy complexion of the man. In shaking him by the hand, however, Mr. Blair's elbow accidentally came in contact with some hard substance in the coat pocket of the other, which gave forth a suspicious gurgling sound.

"I beg your pardon, sir, but I fear I have broken something in your pocket."

"Oh, no, not at all. But, by the way, General, here is a little phial of real, old Democratic whisky. Will you test the quality?"

"Thank you; no occasion! But I will inspect its oder, since you have had the kindness. Umph! Ah! What a tone! [Touches it with his lips.] Bless me, this is something particularly choice. By the way a little of it might not do me any injury. I have had this morning something of a touch of epimenial glanutetanus in the stomach, you know. [Forces down a few swallows, with agonizing expressions of delight.] De-li-cious!"

The enterprising showman watched the steady ascent of the "little phial" with a sad countenance and a heavy heart, thinking, no doubt, of the helpless infant which he was "bringing up on the bottle," and fearing the possible consequence of running short.

Mr. Blair was easier during the afternoon, and that "serious disorder of the stomach" was temporarily checked. If the negro boy has not contracted the same disease by drinking afterward out of that bottle, it may be counted a most providential escape.

The Gulf Stream.

There is a river in the ocean. In the severest droughts it never fails, and in the mightiest floods it never overflows. Its banks and its bottom are of cold water, while its current is of warm. The Gulf of Mexico is its fountain, and its mouth is in the Arctic Seas. It is the Gulf Stream. There is in the world no other so majestic a flow of water. Its current is more rapid than the Mississippi or the Amazon, and its volume more than a thousand times greater. Its waters, as far out as the Carolina coasts, are of an indigo blue. They are so distinctly marked that the line of junction with the common sea-water may be traced by the eye. Often one-half of the vessels may be perceived floating in the gulf stream water, while the other half is in the common water of the sea, so sharp is the line and the want of affinity between these waters; and such, too, the reluctance so to speak, on the part of those of the gulf stream to mingle with the common water of the sea. In addition to this, there is another peculiar fact. The fishermen on the coast of Norway are supplied with wood from the tropics by the gulf stream. Think of the Arctic fisherman burning upon their hearths the palms of Hayti, the mahogany of Honduras, and the precious wood of the Amazon and the Orinoco!

Democratic Success Means Revolution!

Mr. Toombs, what is your understanding of the Democratic policy?

Mr. T.—"That all these reconstruction acts as they are called, these schemes of delusion, of villainy, and of tyranny, shall no longer curse the statute book nor oppress the free people of the country."—Speech in Atlanta, July 22.

Frankly spoken, Robert, but we should like something more explicit. You have heard Gen. Hampton's testimony. What is your own opinion of the Democratic policy?

Mr. T.—"That these so-called Governors and Legislatures which have been established in our midst shall at once be made to vacate. The Convention at New York appointed Frank Blair especially to oust them."—Speech at Atlanta.

Then, Robert, you believe in resistance, and that Frank should be assisted in his work.

Mr. T.—(Rather vaguely, but with out-cropping unmistakeable meaning.) "The principle that justice shall rule, that all tyranny is illegal, that it ought to be resisted, and that resistance to such is obedience to God, is the voice of nature, and of nature's God, ringing through all climes, of all countries, proclaiming to mankind that wrong can never be sanctioned by force."

Here is Howell Cobb, whose speech we published recently, and the spirit of which we are content with summiag up in this extract:

"The doors are wide open, wide enough, broad enoagh to receive every white man in Georgia, unless you should discover him coming to you creeping and crawling under the Chicago platform. Upon them there should be no mercy. They have dishonored themselves, and sought to dishonor you. Anathematise them. Drive them from the pale of social and political society. Leave them to wallow in their own mire and filth. Nobody will envy them, and if they are never taken out of the gully until I reach forth my hand to take them up, they will die in their natural element. (Laughter and applause.")

Could language be plainer than this? Gen. Blair proposes to destroy the Government, while Gen. Cobb, who commanded the stockades of Andersonville, is to be assigned to the congenial work of extermination. B. H. is another witness. We propose to detain him a little longer:

"But we have a party now organized, a strong and a glorious party, with statesmen at its head, and with correct principles for its platform. They have taken the field from Maine to California the dread tramp of Democracy is growing more and more distinct, and by November a verdict will be pronounced by the great free people of America that shall gladden the hearts of patriots now and forever, (cheers,) and when the people shall have pronounced that verdict, the great cowardly crowd shall take courage, and hasten to their judgement.

"Then, ah, then, what will becoue of you, ye isolated hypocrites? All power to threaten gone: treachery exhausted. Relief measures and Reconstruction measures both dead, the Radical party out of Congress, how on earth will you thus strip naked to the gaze of the world in all your unhidden infamy? What will become of you? How will you escape the damnation of hell? (A voice: There's no hell bad enough for 'em.') That's what is coming; oh, its coming, thank God, it's coming—coming to the cheer of patriots and the dismay of traitors.

"Yet the vile, the low, the corrupt and the perjured are seeking to be our rulers, and have seized upon our high places; but the noble, the valiant, and the true are still left to us, and through out the country are taking courage and singing the notes of coming triumph. Ye miserable swarms of political acci-

A Positive Remedy for all kinds of Humors,

Scrofula, Scurvy, Salt-Rheum, Carbuncles and Boils, Ulcers and all obstinate Affections of the Skin, Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Piles, Chronic Diarrhœa, Mercurial Diseases, and every taint of the System; Dyspepsia, and those Affections originating in the Derangement of the Digestive Organs; viz., Bilious Complaints, Neuralgia, and Nervous Affections, Headache, Languor, and Depression of Spirits, Loss of Appetite, Constipation.

THIS excellent medicinal compound was first prepared by Dr. J. W. POLAND, in 1847, and was then employed with great success in expelling humors from the blood; but in 1848 a medical friend who was quite celebrated as a physician, especially in the treatment of humors, suggested some important improvements, which were adopted, and which has made it (so the people say) the very best remedy for all kinds of humors known to "the faculty."

This preparation is composed entirely of vegetables, among which are Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Noble Pine, Mandrake, and Bloodroot.

When the originator lived in New Hampshire, at Goffstown Centre, for the space of thirty or forty miles around, and in Manchester particularly, the Humor Doctor was well known and highly valued for the numerous and wonderful cures which it effected. Though manufactured in large quantities, the supply was frequently exhausted, and purchasers had to wait for more to be made. In that region, some very severe cases of Erysipelas were treated with,—and they were cured! Erysipelas sores, or carbuncles,—those ugly, painful ulcers,—were entirely removed wherever this medicine was faithfully used. So it was with Scrofula and Salt-Rheum. The Humor Doctor cured them.

It is free from any dangerous drugs, is pleasant to the taste, safe, yet sure and effective in its action.

Manhood—How Lost, How Restored.

JUST PUBLISHED, A NEW EDITION OF

DR. CULVER'S

Celebrated Essay

On the Radical Cure [without medicine] of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated Author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of Self-Abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps.
